The hypothesis of linguistic relativity holds that the structure of a language affects its speakers' world view or cognition. Also known as the Sapir-Whorf hypothesis, or Whorfianism, the principle is often defined to include two versions: the strong hypothesis and the weak hypothesis: . The strong version says that language determines thought and that linguistic categories limit and ...

Illusory superiority's relationship with self-esteem is uncertain. The theory that those with high self-esteem maintain this high level by rating themselves highly is not without meritâ€™studies involving non-depressed college students found that they thought they had more control over positive outcomes compared to their peers, even when controlling for performance.
